THE FOUNDATION FOR ENHANCING COMMUNITIES

Emerging Philanthropists Program Application

CLASS OF 2023

Deadline: Friday, January 20, 2023

TFEC is excited to provide an opportunity for emerging leaders in the Harrisburg community to become actively engaged with the power of philanthropy through the Emerging Philanthropists program (EPP). EPP seeks to engage Harrisburg's emerging business and community leaders with the great possibilities that lie within philanthropic endeavors in Harrisburg. What does it mean to be philanthropic? How do I understand the needs of our community? What can I do to make an impact? EPP provides resources and educational opportunities for Harrisburg's developing leaders who wish to be actively engaged in giving back to their community.

Winter Allergies

Sneezing, sniffing, itchy eyes?

Spring and fall are not the only time people suffer from allergies.

It's true, when the weather becomes cold there is less risk of being exposed to pollen, or other outdoor allergens that are present during the spring months. However, those who suffer from allergies during the winter typically experience symptoms that stem from indoor allergens, rather than outdoor ones. So what triggers winter allergies?

Dust Mites

Dust collects everywhere, all year, and with a buildup of dust – comes dust mites. Dust mites can live anywhere in your home, especially in places such as heating and air conditioning systems, bedding, furniture, and rugs. Fortunately, there are ways to reduce them, and at the same time reduce your allergy symptoms.

Follow these steps and keep those dust mites in check:

Regularly wash bedding

Vacuum furniture frequently

Dust furniture

Replace heating and cooling air filters

Adopt a regular vacuuming schedule, which can also help you get those daily steps in

Pet Dander

If you have a pet, you know all about their hair and how it gets everywhere! Pet dander can spread the same way, and cause allergies to flare up. Especially during the colder months, when your pet spends more time curled up on your couch or favorite rug, pet dander can linger. It can even attach to your clothing, which can cause further irritation to your allergies.

Mold

Having mold in your home can lead to allergy flare ups. Airborne mold can cause wheezing, congestion, coughing, and other symptoms similar to asthma, and winter illnesses like colds. Many of the winter months are damp from precipitation, and moist conditions are ideal for mold growth. It can collect in areas you don't see often, like utility closets, crawl spaces, garages, or attics so it's a good idea to inspect these areas frequently.

Luckily there are simple ways to prevent winter allergens around your home.

Energy Outlook Winter 2022-2023

2022 proved to be a volatile year in energy, with natural gas prices reaching record highs, and storage levels remaining below the 5-year average. The historical volatility, a measure of the magnitude of daily changes in closing prices for a commodity during a given time in the past, of natural gas futures prices at the Henry Hub has corresponded with high volatility at international pricing hubs in Europe and Asia and hit a 20 year high earlier this year. As we round out 2022 and edge our way into winter, the top question we're fielding is: what can organizations expect from the energy markets over the next few months?

retail electricity and natural gas comparison

The Impact from Weather

Winter is generally the most volatile season for energy prices as weather is the single most important driver of near-term natural gas prices. Forecasters are currently calling for a third straight La Niña winter, something that only happens every 10 – 20 years. La Niña, and its weather counterpart, El Niño, largely refers to water temperatures in the equatorial Pacific Ocean and both can impact weather patterns. A La Niña winter has cooler than average water temperature, but often brings warmer than average winter temperatures to much of the country.

Of course, weather is not the only factor contributing to energy prices. Natural gas and electricity pricing are highly correlated so natural gas storage inventories, production levels, economic conditions and even geopolitical events can play a role in both natural gas and electricity prices.
