Penalties for Using Handheld Devices in Effect June 6

A Pennsylvania law banning the use of handheld devices while driving has been in effect since last June, with violators being issued warnings. Starting June 6, violators will instead face fines.

Paul Miller's Law limits the use of handheld cellphones or other communication devices while operating a motor vehicle. The law is named for a young man who was killed in a crash involving a distracted tractor-trailer driver in Monroe County, Pennsylvania, in 2010.

Under the law, driving while holding a mobile device is a primary violation, meaning police can pull over drivers solely for the violation. Effective June 6, violators will be issued a summary offense, which carries a $50 fine, plus court costs and other fees. If a driver is convicted of homicide by vehicle and driving while distracted, they may be sentenced up to an additional five years in prison.

Drivers can still use their phones if using hands-free technology, such as a docking station, Blue-tooth or speaker technology. You may also use your phone to contact emergency responders.

According to PennDOT, more than 11,000 crashes were the result of distracted driving, leading to 65 deaths and 6,700 injuries in 2023. Pennsylvania joins 28 other states with hands-free laws.

Attention Students: House Fellowship Program Taking Applications

The Pennsylvania House Legislative Fellowship Program is accepting applications for its fall 2026 semester.

The program is based at Pennsylvania's Capitol Building in Harrisburg where fellows are assigned to work in House standing committees or leadership offices; are compensated for their work (which may also include college credit); and are provided the opportunities to draft and present their own legislation, attend meet-and-greets with various public officials and staff, and tour some of the Commonwealth's historic public spaces, to name a few.

Qualified applicants must be undergraduate juniors or seniors, graduate students, or law school students; enrolled in a Pennsylvania college/university or a Pennsylvania resident enrolled in an out-of-state institution; and pursuing any major with a GPA of 3.0 or higher.

For more information or to apply, visit pahousefellowship.us. Applications can be submitted via email to pahousefellowship@pabmc.net. The deadline to apply for the fall term is July 1.

Leave Young Wildlife Alone

The Pennsylvania Game Commission is reminding those spending time in the great outdoors to leave young wildlife alone.

While some young animals might appear to be abandoned, usually they are not. It's likely their mothers are watching over them from somewhere nearby. When encountering young wild animals, whether deer, birds, raccoons or something else, the commission says the best thing you can do is leave them alone.

Interfering with or removing any wild animal from its natural setting can be harmful to both people and wildlife. It also is illegal to take or possess wildlife from the wild. Under state law, the penalty for such a violation is a fine of up to $1,500 per animal.

Only wildlife rehabilitators, who are licensed by the Game Commission, are permitted to care for injured or orphaned wildlife for the purposes of eventual release back into the wild. For those who find wildlife that truly is in need of assistance, a listing of licensed wildlife rehabilitators can be found on the Pennsylvania Association of Wildlife Rehabilitators website, pawr.com.

If you are unable to identify a wildlife rehabilitator in your area, contact the Game Commission by phone at 1-833-PGC-WILD or 1-833-PGC-HUNT.

Protecting Yourself During Tick Season

Pennsylvania recorded more than 18,700 cases of Lyme disease in 2025, and the Centers for Disease Control estimates the true number may be much higher due to underreporting.

Lyme disease and other tick-borne illnesses can cause serious long-term health complications, particularly when left untreated. Nearly 55% of ticks tested in Pennsylvania were found to carry at least one tick-borne pathogen, and blacklegged ticks have now been identified in all 67 counties.

You can protect yourself by using repellent, avoiding brushy areas and checking your body and pets after outdoor activities. Learn more about protecting yourself from ticks here.

Cellphone Law to Reduce Distracted Driving Takes Full Effect

After a one-year warning period, a state law aimed at reducing distracted driving is now enforceable.

The law prohibits the use of hand-held devices while driving, even while stopped temporarily due to traffic, a red light or other delays. Drivers can still use their phones to alert authorities in the event of an emergency and use hands-free technology to make phone calls, use a GPS and listen to music. Drivers convicted of using a hand-held device while driving will pay a $50 fine, plus court costs and other fees.

As we look ahead to June, we have two fantastic upcoming educational events that can help our members navigate today's complex energy and sustainability landscape.

- June 16 | Live on LinkedIn: A dynamic session focused on current energy markets and how shifting trends will directly impact your members' bottom lines.
- June 23 – July 16 | Virtual GRI Certification Training: Hosted in partnership with UT Dallas, this intensive program is perfect for members looking to master sustainability reporting.

Energy markets are shifting fast. Rising electricity demand—fueled by data centers and AI—combined with geopolitical uncertainty and evolving regulations are creating both risks and opportunities for buyers.

The good news: there are clear steps you can take right now to protect your members' organization and stay ahead.

Here are 3 actions energy buyers learned in our last Energy Buyer's Brief:

- Lock in strategic hedges where budgets allow.
Forward pricing still offers opportunities—especially in natural gas—to secure long-term cost stability.
- Diversify procurement timing.
Avoid waiting until contract expiration. Layer purchases over time to reduce exposure to market volatility.
- Evaluate longer-term contracts (7–15 years).
For organizations needing stability, extending your horizon can provide cost predictability in a rising demand environment.

Don't miss this next Energy Buyer's Brief on June 16th for current energy dynamics, more tips, and ways to manage costs and capture value.

Patient First Celebrates 45 Years of Physician-Led, All-in-One Care Across the Mid-Atlantic

It was 1981 when Patient First's distinctive green roof first appeared on the outskirts of Richmond, Virginia. The idea was simple, yet novel: to provide friendly, convenient, and cost-effective medical care, without an appointment, 365 days a year. In the 45 years that have followed, nearly 80 of those green roofs have popped up from Virginia to New Jersey, and they've expanded to cover even more services than just urgent care. Primary care and telehealth services also fall under that roof now, making Patient First one of the most comprehensive, one-stop medical centers in the Mid-Atlantic region.

As we approach a half-century of service, we reflect upon the things for which we are grateful. We are grateful to our patients for their trust in us. We appreciate all those familiar faces who have turned to us over the decades. Many of those first patients who came to us in the 80's have grown up and brought their own children to be seen by our providers. That singular level of trust is reflected in the nearly 40 "Best Of" awards we have been honored to receive across the region in 2025. We also appreciate each of the new friendly faces who walk through our doors for the first time to receive care, every single day.

We are grateful to our Patient First family for their hard work and enthusiasm. Our dedicated staff have committed themselves to our patients, and to one another. They have made this 45-year journey an evolutionary success.

As proud as we are of our history, we are even more excited about our future. We continue to explore new technologies to improve the quality of care we provide, new services for our patients, and new communities to serve. At the same time, we steadfastly commit ourselves to providing that same level of expert care our patients have come to know and expect, and to deliver that care in a clean, warm, and welcoming environment.

As it has been since the beginning, our name is our philosophy. Thank you for your support throughout these 45 years of putting the patient first.

All Patient First Medical Centers are open 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. every day of the year, including holidays. Patient First provides non-appointment urgent care for routine injuries and illnesses, primary care for patients who do not have a regular physician, as well as telehealth services. Each Patient First center has on-site digital x-ray, on-site laboratory, and on-site prescription medication. Patient First currently operates medical centers in Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

Are Your Cleaning or Lawn Care Services Subject to PA Sales Tax?

Written by Nick Miller, CMI & Barbara Sanborn

Many business owners and customers are surprised to learn that Pennsylvania sales tax can apply to certain cleaning, maintenance, lawn care, and landscaping services. Since Pennsylvania does not tax every type of service, understanding which services are subject to sales tax and how those services are described on invoices is critical for compliance and risk reduction.

Quick answer

In Pennsylvania, many cleaning, janitorial, lawn care, and groundskeeping services are generally subject to sales tax. However, certain construction, repair, remodeling, and permanent landscaping improvements may not be taxable. The tax treatment depends on the type of service performed and how the work is documented on the invoice.

This article explains how Pennsylvania sales tax applies to these services, what business owners should do to stay compliant, and what customers should know if sales tax is not charged on a taxable service.

Why PA Sales Tax on Services Can Be Confusing

Many people think of sales tax as something that applies only to products. In Pennsylvania, however, certain services are also taxable.

That can create confusion for business owners who provide cleaning, maintenance, lawn care, or landscaping services. A service that seems similar on the surface may be treated differently depending on whether it is routine upkeep or part of a construction or improvement project.

For example, mowing a lawn is generally treated differently from installing sod as part of a landscaping project. Cleaning an office building is generally treated differently from painting or remodeling that same building.

Understanding these differences can help businesses stay compliant and help customers know what to expect on their invoices.

Are Cleaning Services Taxable in PA?

In many cases, building cleaning and janitorial services are subject to Pennsylvania sales tax, even when labor is separately stated on the invoice.

Taxable cleaning services may include:

- Janitorial services
- Housekeeping services

- Commercial building cleaning
- Window cleaning
- Floor cleaning or waxing
- Chimney, duct, or vent cleaning
- Cleaning blinds, fixtures, or similar building features

If the service is considered taxable, sales tax generally applies to the full charge for the service. Separately stating labor on the invoice usually does not make the service non-taxable.

Example:

A business hires a company to clean its office every week. The cleaning company vacuums, dusts, empties trash, and cleans the windows. Because this is routine commercial cleaning, the service is generally taxable in Pennsylvania.

Are Maintenance Services Taxable in PA?

Some maintenance services are taxable, but many construction, repair, remodeling, or real property improvement services are generally not taxable when billed to the customer.

Services that are generally not taxable may include:

- Building repairs
- Remodeling
- Interior or exterior painting
- Certain HVAC or boiler repairs
- Other improvements to real property

The key question is whether the work is a taxable cleaning or maintenance service, or whether it is a non-taxable construction, repair, or improvement to real property.

This is why clear contracts and invoices are important. If taxable and non-taxable services are grouped together without explanation, it can become harder to support the correct tax treatment.

Are Lawn Care Services Taxable in PA?

Routine lawn care services are generally subject to Pennsylvania sales tax.

Taxable lawn care services may include:

- Mowing
- Trimming
- Fertilizing
- Aeration
- Groundskeeping
- Routine lawn maintenance

These services are typically considered ongoing maintenance rather than improvements to real property.

Example:

A homeowner or business hires a lawn care company to mow the grass every two weeks and apply fertilizer during the season. Because this is routine lawn care, the service is generally taxable in Pennsylvania.

Are Landscaping Services Taxable in PA?

Landscaping can be more complicated because some services are taxable while others may not be.

In general, landscaping services tied to permanent improvements to real property are typically non-taxable. These may include:

- Installing sod
- Planting trees, shrubs, or plants
- Grading
- Landscape construction
- Installing patios
- Building retaining walls
- Installing other permanent landscaping features

The difference often comes down to whether the service is routine lawn care or a more permanent improvement to the property.

Example

If a landscaping company mows a customer's lawn, that service is generally taxable. If the same company installs a new retaining wall or plants trees as part of a larger landscape construction project, that work may be non-taxable.

What Should Business Owners Do?

If your business provides taxable cleaning, lawn care, or maintenance services in Pennsylvania, you may need to:

- Register for a Pennsylvania sales tax license
- Charge sales tax on taxable services
- Separate state sales tax on customer invoices
- Remit collected sales tax to the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue
- Keep documentation that supports the tax treatment of your services

Proper invoicing is especially important when a project includes both taxable and non-taxable work. For example, a landscaping invoice may include taxable lawn maintenance and non-taxable installation work. Separating those charges can help reduce confusion and support compliance.

What Should Customers Know About Pennsylvania Use Tax?

Customers should also pay attention to whether sales tax is charged.

If a vendor does not charge Pennsylvania sales tax on a taxable product or service, the customer may be responsible for self-assessing and paying Pennsylvania use tax.

This can be especially relevant for businesses that purchase cleaning, maintenance, or lawn care services from vendors that may not be familiar with Pennsylvania tax rules.

Best Practices for Invoices and Contracts

Clear documentation can help both service providers and customers avoid tax issues.

Best practices include:

- Clearly describing the services provided
- Separating taxable and non-taxable services on invoices
- Identifying taxable products sold to customers
- Distinguishing routine maintenance from real property improvements
- Keeping contracts, work orders, and project documentation
- Reviewing recurring service agreements for proper tax treatment

For service providers, strong documentation supports why sales tax was or was not charged. For customers, it helps confirm whether the invoice was handled properly.

How Trout CPA Can Help

Pennsylvania sales and use tax rules can be difficult to navigate, especially when a business provides both taxable and non-taxable services. Trout CPA can help businesses review their sales tax responsibilities, evaluate potential exposure, and strengthen documentation.

Our services include PA sales tax audit support, sales tax reverse audits, nexus analysis, sales tax research, exemption-related guidance, and assistance with Pennsylvania sales tax license requests.

If your business provides cleaning, lawn care, landscaping, maintenance, or other taxable services, Trout CPA can help you understand your obligations and reduce compliance risk.

The Bottom Line

Pennsylvania sales tax rules for cleaning, maintenance, lawn care, and landscaping services can be easy to misunderstand. Routine cleaning and lawn care services are often taxable, while construction, repair, remodeling, and permanent landscaping improvements may be treated differently.

The best way to reduce risk is to clearly identify the services being provided, separate taxable and non-taxable charges, and maintain documentation that supports the tax treatment.

Contact Trout CPA for guidance on Pennsylvania sales tax compliance and how these rules may apply to your business.
